Illustrative example 1 – claims for Cancer

This example including the medical expenses is hypothetical and for illustrative purpose only.

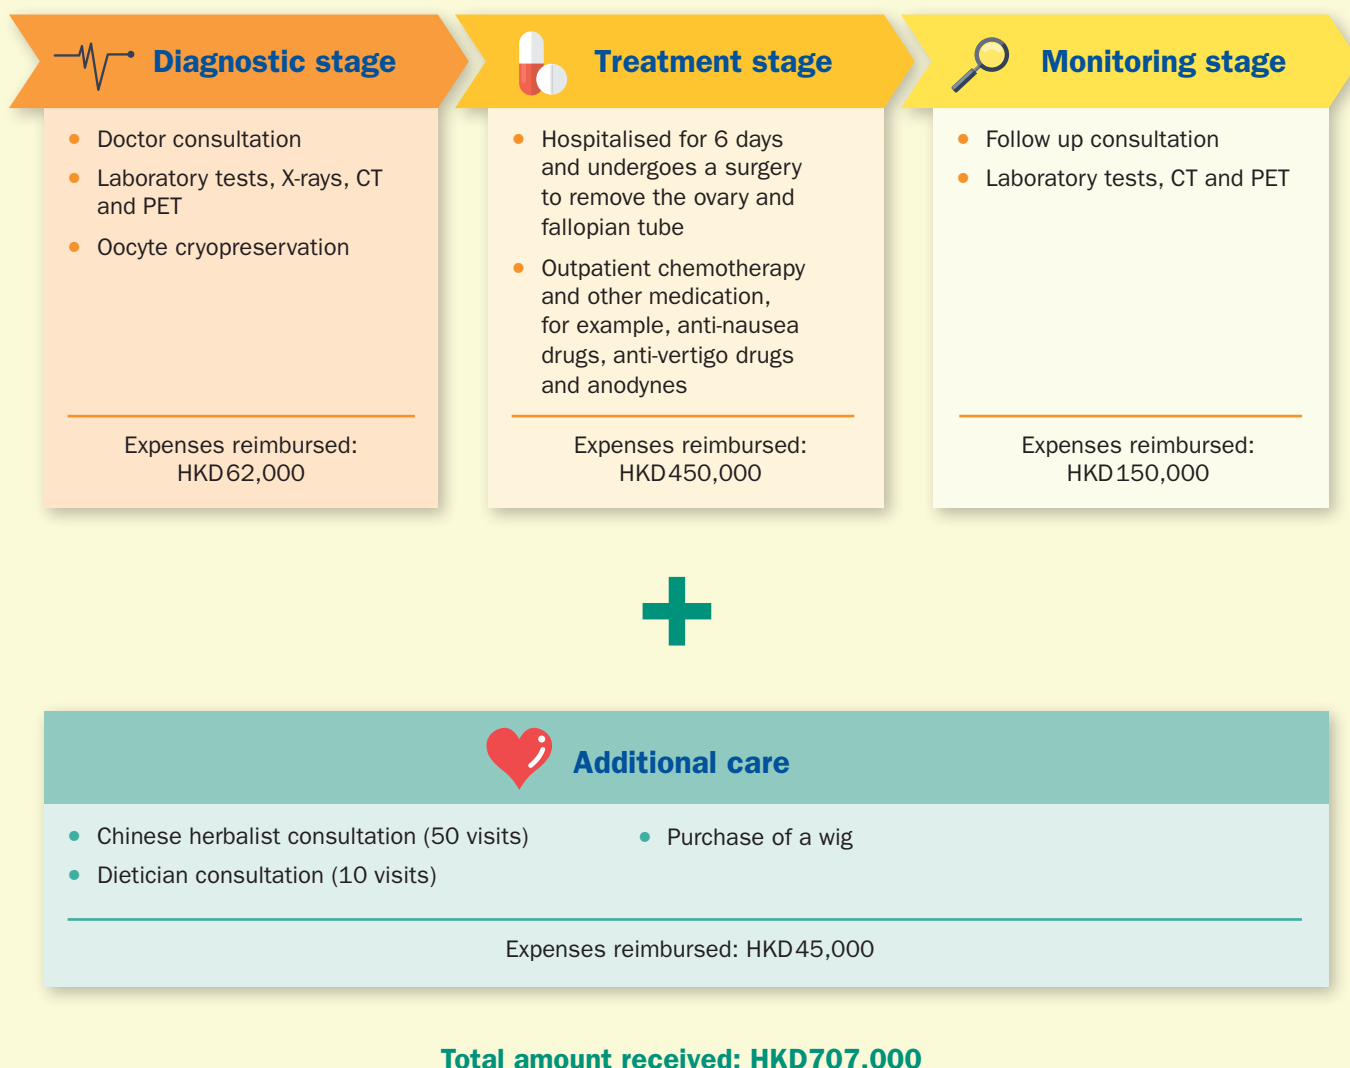

Vivian, aged 27, is an accountant who just got married and started her own family. She and her husband love children and plan to have 2 in the next few years. To protect the well being of her loved ones, Vivian understands that she needs to get prepared for the unexpected, such as critical illness. As such, she takes out a Cancer Therapy Insurance II policy (Superior benefit level).

3 years later, Vivian consults a doctor for persistent stomachache and abdominal bloating. After a series of tests, she is diagnosed with stage I ovary cancer. Since Vivian plans to have children in future, she stores her mature oocytes (eggs) via cryopreservation (egg freezing). Then, Vivian has stayed in a standard semi-private room of a private hospital for 6 days to undergo a surgery to remove the ovary and fallopian tube. After being discharged from hospital, she receives chemotherapy to lower the chance of recurrence. She also has follow up consultations and examinations to monitor her recovery progress.

Alongside surgery and chemotherapy treatment, Vivian consults a Chinese herbalist to help recover her health and a dietician to keep a healthy diet. Since Vivian is very much aware of her appearance, she purchases a wig as she loses hair during the course of chemotherapy. She recovers after 18 months of treatment and monitoring.

With Cancer Therapy Insurance II, Vivian is able to reimburse the eligible medical expenses incurred for oocyte cryopreservation and treatment of ovary cancer:

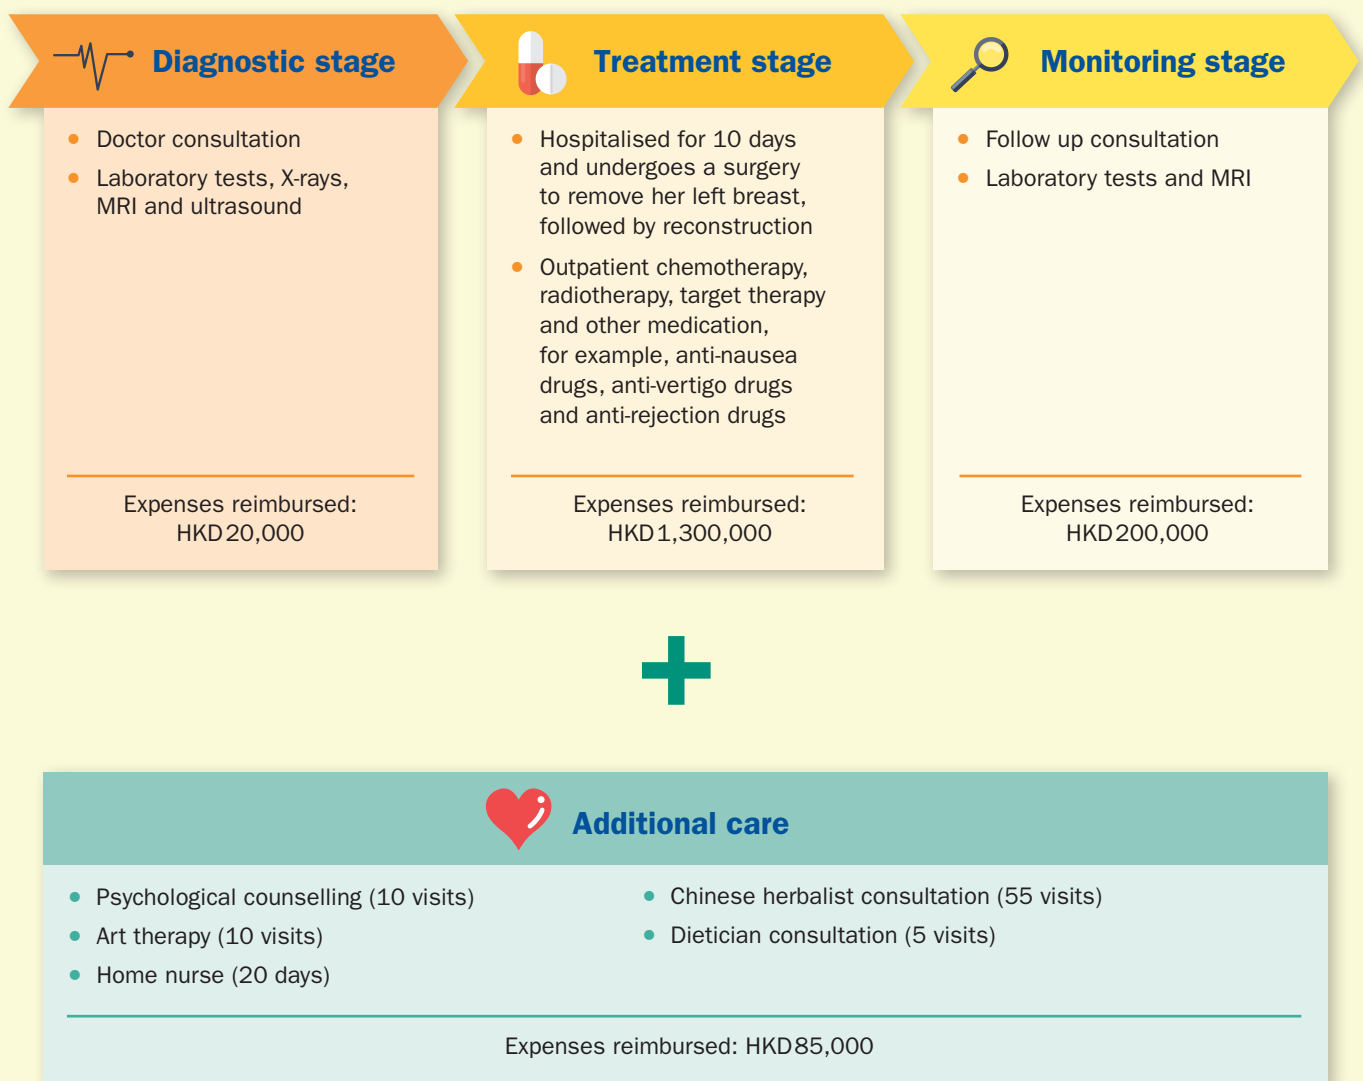

Illustrative example 1 – claims for Cancer (cont'd)

After the claim for oocyte cryopreservation and ovary cancer treatment, Vivian is still protected by Cancer Therapy Insurance II as it is guaranteed renewable³ and the maximum lifetime limit¹ has not been reached.

10 years later, Vivian experiences constant and unusual breast pain. She goes to see a doctor and is diagnosed with stage III breast cancer. As advised by the doctor, Vivian undergoes a surgery to remove her left breast, followed by reconstruction. She has stayed in a standard semi-private room of a private hospital for 10 days. After the surgery, she receives radiotherapy, chemotherapy and target therapy. To closely monitor the progress of the treatment received, she has follow up consultations and examinations.

In face of on-going cancer treatment, Vivian and her husband need to have psychological counselling to relieve their stress. Their psychologist recommends Vivian to try art therapy to ease anxiety about the medical procedures. Besides, she hires a home nurse to take care of her after surgery. She also consults a Chinese herbalist and a dietician to help recover her health.

With Cancer Therapy Insurance II, Vivian is able to reimburse the eligible medical expenses incurred for treatment of breast cancer:

Total amount received: HKD 1,605,000

Vivian has received a total of HKD 2,312,000 for oocyte cryopreservation and treatment of ovary and breast cancer. She will continue to be protected by Cancer Therapy Insurance II until the maximum lifetime limit¹ is exhausted.

Note: Claims for the above medical expenses are subject to the relevant terms, conditions and exclusions. Please refer to the relevant policy contract for details.

Illustrative example 2 – claims for Stroke and Cancer

This example including the medical expenses is hypothetical and for illustrative purpose only.

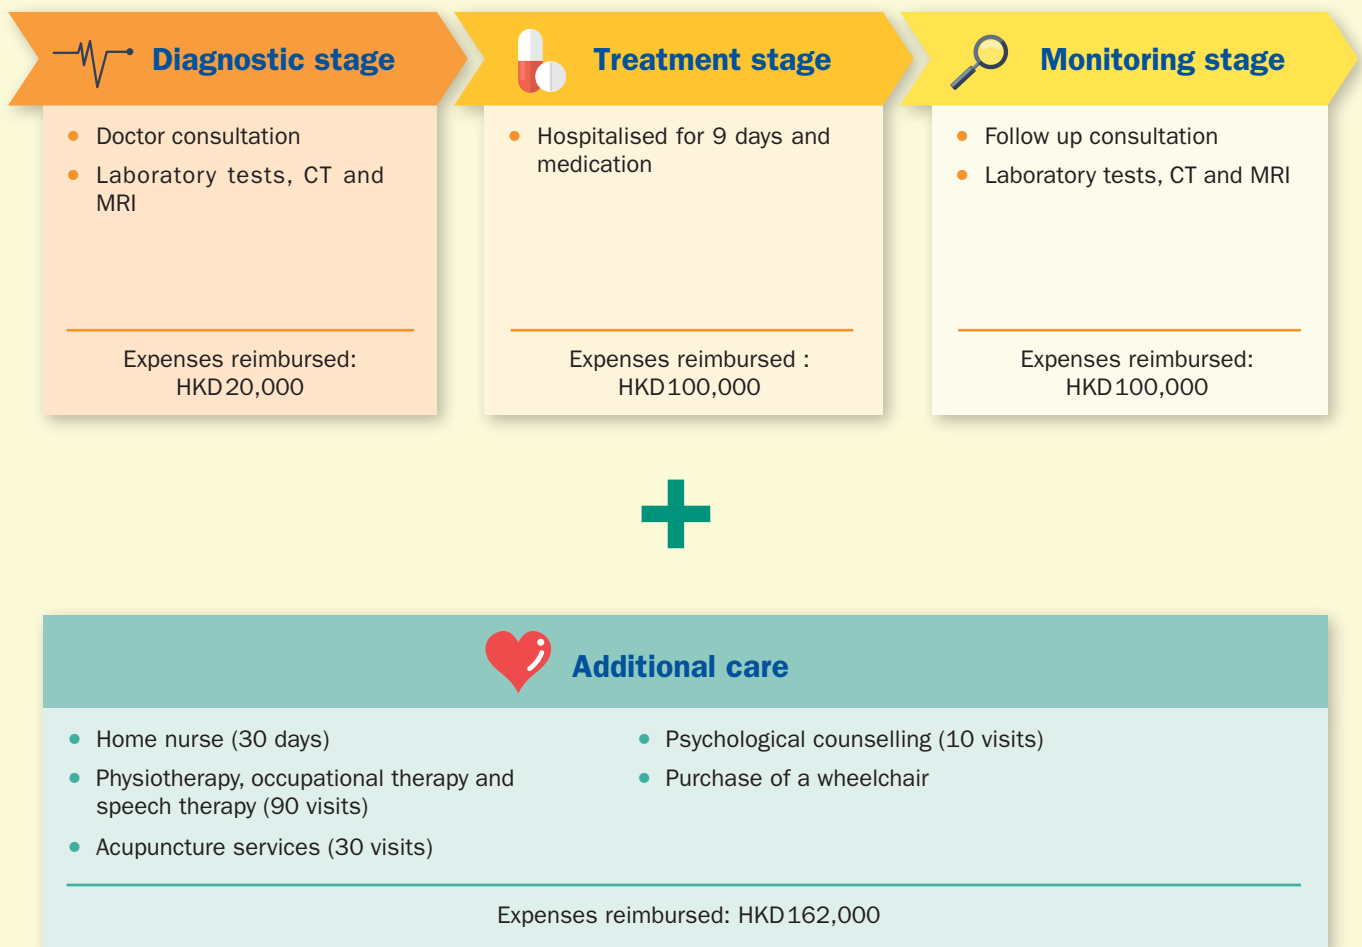

Alex, aged 43, is a travel consultant who lives with his parents and his wife. As the breadwinner of the family, he understands the importance to take better care of himself and to safeguard his family's financial security against any unexpected. As such, he takes out a Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance policy (Superior benefit level).

4 years later, Alex feels a sudden numbness on his left leg during work and cannot stand up. He goes to see a doctor immediately. After a series of tests, he is diagnosed with a mild stroke. Alex has stayed in a standard semi-private room of a private hospital for 9 days for treatment. After being discharged from hospital, he has follow up consultations and examinations to monitor his recovery progress.

Due to physical function impairment, Alex hires a home nurse to take care of him and has to purchase a wheelchair for daily mobility. To help restore the physical function of his leg, he receives physiotherapy and acupuncture services. Besides, occupational therapy and speech therapy are performed to enhance his ability to carry out daily activities and communication. Alex and his wife also see a psychological counsellor to cope with their stress and anxiety arising from this unexpected incident. After 1 year of treatment and monitoring, Alex recovers and can resume to work.

With Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance, Alex is able to reimburse the eligible medical expenses incurred for treatment of stroke:

Total amount received: HKD 382,000

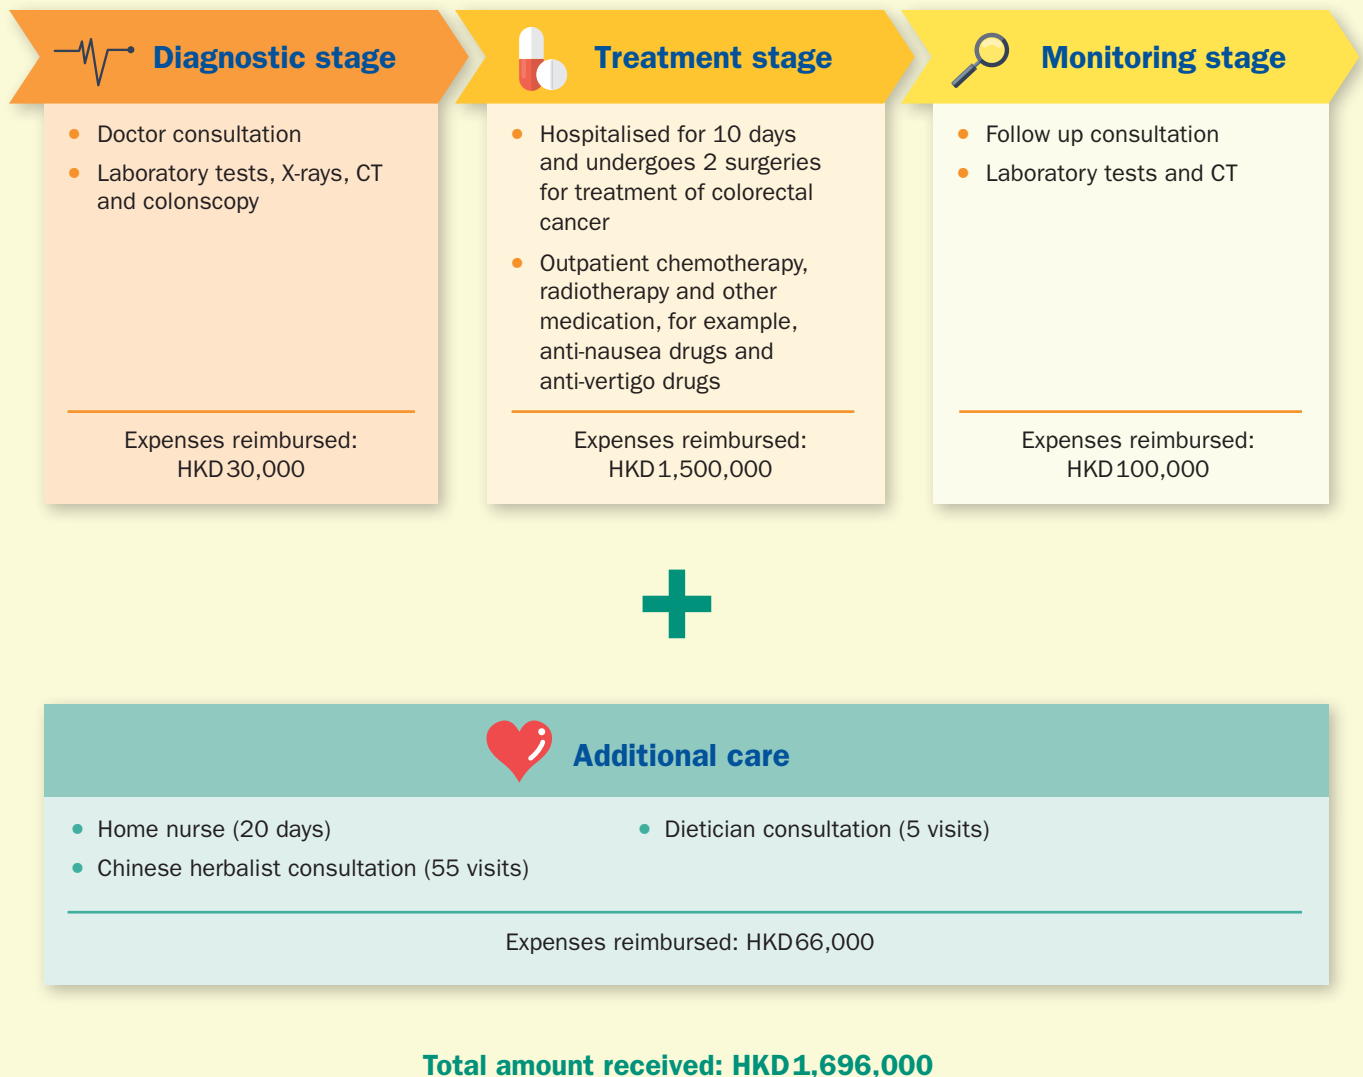

Illustrative example 2 – claims for Stroke and Cancer (cont'd)

After the claim for stroke treatment, Alex is still protected by Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance as it is guaranteed renewable³ and the maximum lifetime limit¹ has not been reached.

5 years later, Alex experiences bloody stool, appetite loss and severe weight loss. He goes to see a doctor and is later diagnosed with stage III colorectal cancer. As advised by the doctor, Alex undergoes a surgery to remove part of the colon with a stoma (opening) made on the abdomen. 1 month later, he has a second surgery to close the stoma. He has stayed in a standard semi-private room of a private hospital for 10 days for the 2 surgeries. After the surgeries, Alex receives radiotherapy and chemotherapy. He also has follow up consultations and examinations to monitor his recovery progress.

To aid in recovery, Alex hires a home nurse to take care of him. He also consults a Chinese herbalist and a dietician to help recover his health.

With Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance, Alex is able to reimburse the eligible medical expenses incurred for treatment of colorectal cancer:

Alex has received a total of HKD 2,078,000 for treatment of stroke and colorectal cancer. He will continue to be protected by Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance until the maximum lifetime limit¹ is exhausted.

If you are not completely satisfied with the policy, you have the right to cancel it by returning the policy (if applicable) and giving a written notice of cancellation to the Company. Policy currency

If your policy is denominated in a currency other than your local currency, you may face an exchange rate risk. Upon currency conversion, the amounts you receive and the premiums you pay may vary as a result of changes in exchange rate.

You should pay premiums for the whole of your premium payment term. Any premiums remaining outstanding at the end of the grace period (i.e. 31 days after premium due date) may lead to termination of your policy. You may lose the insurance protection offered by the policy.

Inflation

Medical costs in the future are likely to be higher than they are today due to inflation. In that case, the Company may revise the benefit coverage and future premiums from time to time, such that the adequacy of coverage under the plan can be maintained.

Covered Cancer means Carcinoma-in-situ, Early Stage Cancer or Cancer. Where a benefit under the policy has been paid in respect of a Covered Cancer ("Preceding Covered Cancer"), and this is followed by another Covered Cancer ("Later Covered Cancer"), the Later Covered Cancer shall be treated as the single and same ("Identical") Covered Cancer as the Preceding Covered Cancer for the purpose of calculating the benefits payable and determining the benefits limits applicable under the policy.

However, the Later Covered Cancer shall not be treated as the Identical Covered Cancer as the Preceding Covered Cancer where:

- (a) the Later Covered Cancer and the Preceding Covered Cancer are caused by different malignant cells, and the date of first diagnosis of the Preceding Covered Cancer and that of the Later Covered Cancer are separated by at least 1 year; or

If the Later Covered Cancer is treated as the Identical Covered Cancer as the Preceding Covered Cancer, all benefits payable and benefit limits applicable to such Covered Cancers shall be subject to the single and same maximum benefit limit applicable to the Preceding Covered Cancer.

More than one Stroke (applicable to Cancer And Stroke Therapy Insurance only)

Where a benefit under the policy has been paid in respect of a Stroke ("Preceding Stroke"), and this is followed by another Stroke ("Later Stroke"), the Later Stroke shall be treated as the Identical Stroke as the Preceding Stroke for the purpose of calculating the benefits payable and determining the benefits limits applicable under the policy.

However, the Later Stroke shall not be treated as the Identical Stroke as the Preceding Stroke if (i) a specialist certifies the diagnosis of the Later Stroke as a new Stroke along with relevant radiological report such as MRI, CT, or other reliable imaging techniques consistent with the diagnosis; and (ii) the date of diagnosis of the Preceding Stroke and that of the Later Stroke are separated by at least 1 year.

If the Later Stroke is treated as the Identical Stroke as the Preceding Stroke, all benefits payable and benefit limits applicable to such Strokes shall be subject to the single and same maximum benefit limit applicable to the Preceding Stroke.

Except for such limit imposed on the benefits payable, the per covered illness limit and maximum lifetime limit shall remain unchanged.
